

Ramesh Summan

I am a local person of 28 years of age and have lived in Letchworth Garden City since birth. This means that over the years I have developed an understanding of issues impacting the community in this town.

Having been schooled at Norton School, I went on to study Economics and Politics at the University of East Anglia at postgraduate level. I have worked as a lecturer at North Hertfordshire College and am presently managing my own educational one-to-one consultancy business. It is here that I enjoy working with people of diverse backgrounds.

I am involved with a number of charities both nationally and locally: this includes the North Hertfordshire Ethnic Minority Forum and the British Stammering Association so I have experienced Tory cuts first hand. I am currently experiencing work as a Youth Officer in the Labour Party in which role I have encountered cuts in start-up funds and youth unemployment.

My priorities in this local election will be to protect local amenities such as schools, improve litter clearance and bear down on street crime. At the same time, I will oppose budget cuts to Letchworth Library, our museums and local voluntary groups.

I will support the building of a generation of new affordable social housing and press for higher visibility of police patrols. Another key concern is to attempt to have the dangers of the motorway slip road at Letchworth Gate re-addressed.

Labour Councils are:

- Protecting police numbers - not cutting them while wasting £100 million on a new tier of politicians (elected police commissioners).
- Supporting jobs - not putting hundreds of thousands of workers on to the benefit bill through Government cuts and the VAT increase.
- Protecting frontline local services - not talking gobbledegook to hide cuts.
- Standing up for young people - not kicking away the ladder for our next generation by tripling tuition fees, scrapping Education Maintenance Allowances, slashing Building Schools for the Future and undermining school sport.
- Thoughtfully identifying sensible savings - not cutting too far, too fast.
